Why Take a Parenting Class?

It is beneficial to parents to occasionally step back from everyday responsibilities and reflect on their vision for parenting. Asking questions such as:

- “What kind of parent do I want to be?
 - Am I acting in that way?
- What are my hopes and dreams for my children?
- And/or what qualities and characteristics do I want my children to have as adults?”

Exploring these questions helps parents to clarify their values and set a direction for their parenting. This pause to reflect lets parents think about ways to nurture the qualities they want to encourage in their children.

A parenting philosophy helps parents see beyond the immediate concerns to the long range goals.

When parents know what they are striving for, they can be more thoughtful about their own choices and actions and less reactive.

They can decide what is working well and what could use improvement.

WHY: Why are zero scores in tennis called ‘love’?
BECAUSE: In France, where tennis became popular, the round zero on the scoreboard looked like an egg and was called ‘l’oeuf’, which is French for ‘the egg’. When tennis was introduced in the US, Americans (mis)pronounced it ‘love’.

Spring forward with Animal & Bylaw Services good neighbour tips

Now that the snow has melted and spring is here, you may be itching to head outside to enjoy the sunshine and tackle some outdoor projects.

The City of Calgary would like you and your neighbours to be safe as you enjoy the spring and summer months ahead. Here are some frequently referenced bylaws to help ensure all Calgarians live in safe, clean and healthy communities.

Weeds and grass

- Grass and weeds must be less than 15 centimetres (six inches) in height. This also applies to vacant lots with residential areas.

- Keep weeds under control so they don't spread from your property.
- When watering your lawn, make sure water isn't running onto the street or sidewalk.
- The best time to water your lawn is early in the morning or after it cools off in the evening.

Pesticide use

- Weed-and-feed type products have been banned in the province of Alberta. Purchase fertilizers and herbicides separately and spot treat weeds as required.
- Use pesticides responsibly and consider chemical-free alternatives.
- Be courteous and advise your neighbours before you use a pesticide. They may have concerns about timing or nature of your planned activities.

If you have any questions or require more information visit www.calgary.ca and search bylaws related to grass.

RESIDENTIAL ACCESS MODIFICATION PROGRAM

Albertans benefit from a generous Residential Access Modification Program (RAMP). Under this program, eligible Albertans of all ages who use wheelchairs and seniors who use four-wheel walkers can apply for the RAMP grant throughout the year, to make modifications such as door widening, flooring changes, porch or stair lifts, exterior ramps and bathtub door inserts. The grant is available to modify their primary residence to be more accessible, regardless of whether they rent or own the property.

In May 2014, Residential Access Modification Program (RAMP) funding was increased to better support lower income Albertans with mobility challenges in achieving greater independence at home. The maximum grant available has been increased to $7,500.00. In addition, both new and previous applicants may qualify for multiple RAMP grants totaling up to $15,000 in a 10-year period.

To learn more about RAMP, please contact my office at 403.215.7710.

Makes the Whole World Kin

By O. Henry (source: public domain)

The American short story writer O. Henry (1862 - 1910) was born under the name William Sydney Porter in Greensboro, North Carolina in 1862. His short stories are well known throughout the world; noted for their witticism, clever wordplay, and unexpected "twist" endings.

The burglar stepped inside the window quickly, and then he took his time. A burglar who respects his art always takes his time before taking anything else.

The house was a private residence. By its boarded front door and untrimmed Boston ivy the burglar knew that the mistress of it was sitting on some oceanside piazza telling a sympathetic man in a yachting cap that no one had ever understood her sensitive, lonely heart. He knew by the light in the third-story front windows, and by the lateness of the season, that the master of the house had come home, and would soon extinguish his light and retire. For it was September of the year and of the soul, in which season the house's good man comes to consider roof gardens and stenographers as vanities, and to desire the return of his mate and the more durable blessings of decorum and the moral excellencies.

The burglar lighted a cigarette. The guarded glow of the match illuminated his salient points for a moment. He belonged to the third type of burglars.

This third type has not yet been recognized and accepted. The police have made us familiar with the first and second. Their classification is simple. The collar is the distinguishing mark.

When a burglar is caught who does not wear a collar he is described as a degenerate of the lowest type, singularly vicious and depraved, and is suspected of being the desperate criminal who stole the handcuffs out of Patrolman Hennessy's pocket in 1878 and walked away to escape arrest.

The other well-known type is the burglar who wears a collar. He is always referred to as a Raffles in real life. He is invariably a gentleman by daylight, breakfasting in a dress suit, and posing as a paperhanger, while after dark he plies his nefarious occupation of burglary. His mother is an extremely wealthy and respected resident of Ocean Grove, and when he is conducted to his cell he asks at once for a nail file and the Police Gazette. He always has a wife in every State in the Union and fiancées in all the Territories, and the newspapers print his matrimonial gallery out of their stock of cuts of the ladies who were cured by only one bottle after having been given up by five doctors, experiencing great relief after the first dose.

The burglar wore a blue sweater. He was neither a Raffles nor one of the chefs from Hell's Kitchen. The police would have been baffled had they attempted to classify him. They have not yet heard of the respectable, unassuming burglar who is neither above nor below his station.

This burglar of the third class began to prowl. He wore no masks, dark lanterns, or gum shoes. He carried a 88-calibre revolver in his pocket, and he chewed peppermint gum thoughtfully.

The furniture of the house was swathed in its summer dust protectors. The silver was far away in safe-deposit vaults. The burglar expected no remarkable "haul." His objective point was that dimly lighted room where the master of the house should be sleeping heavily after whatever solace he had sought to lighten the burden of his loneliness. A "touch" might be made there to the extent of legitimate, fair professional profits -- loose money, a watch, a jewelled stick-pin -- nothing exorbitant or beyond reason. He had seen the window left open and had taken the chance.

The burglar softly opened the door of the lighted room. The gas was turned low. A man lay in the bed asleep. On the dresser lay many things in confusion -- a crumpled roll of bills, a watch, keys, three poker chips, crushed cigars, a pink silk hair bow, and an unopened bottle of bromo-seltzer for a bulwark in the morning.

The burglar took three steps toward the dresser. The man in the bed suddenly uttered a squeaky groan and opened his eyes. His right hand slid under his pillow, but remained there.

"Lay still," said the burglar in conversational tone. Burglars of the third type do not hiss. The citizen in the bed looked at the round end of the burglar's pistol and lay still.

"Now hold up both your hands," commanded the burglar.

The citizen had a little, pointed, brown-and-gray beard, like that of a painless dentist. He looked solid, esteemed, irritable, and disgusted. He sat up in bed and raised his right hand above his head.

"Up with the other one," ordered the burglar. "You might be amphibious and shoot with your left. You can count two, can't you? Hurry up, now."

"Can't raise the other one," said the citizen, with a contortion of his lineaments.

"What's the matter with it?"

"Rheumatism in the shoulder."

"Inflammatory?"

"Was. The inflammation has gone down." The burglar stood for a moment or two, holding his gun on the afflicted one. He glanced at the plunder on the dresser and then, with a half-embarrassed air, back at the man in the bed. Then he, too, made a sudden grimace.

"Don't stand there making faces," snapped the citizen, bad-humouredly. "If you've come to burgle why don't you do it? There's some stuff lying around."

"Scuse me," said the burglar, with a grin; "but it just socked me one, too. It's good for you that rheumatism and me happens to be old pals. I got it in my left arm, too. Most anybody but me would have popped you when you wouldn't hoist that left claw of yours."

"How long have you had it?" inquired the citizen.

"Four years. I guess that ain't all. Once you've got it, it's you for a rheumatic life -- that's my judgment."

"Ever try rattlesnake oil?" asked the citizen, interestedly.

"Gallons," said the burglar. "If all the snakes I've used the oil of was strung out in a row they'd reach eight times as far as Saturn, and the rattles could be heard at Valparaiso, Indiana, and back."

"Some use Chiselum's Pills," remarked the citizen.

"Fudge!" said the burglar. "Took 'em five months. No good. I had some relief the year I tried Finkelham's Extract, Balm of Gilead poultices and Potts's Pain Pulverizer; but I think it was the buckeye I carried in my pocket what done the trick."

"Is yours worse in the morning or at night?" asked the citizen.

"Night," said the burglar; "just when I'm busiest. Say, take down that arm of yours -- I guess you won't -- Say! did you ever try Blicherstaff's Blood Builder?"

"I never did. Does yours come in paroxysms or is it a steady pain?"

The burglar sat down on the foot of the bed and rested his gun on his crossed knee.

"It jumps," said he. "It strikes me when I ain't looking for it. I had to give up second-story work because I got stuck sometimes half-way up. Tell you what -- I don't believe the bloomin' doctors know what is good for it."

"Same here. I've spent a thousand dollars without getting any relief. Yours swell any?"

"Of mornings. And when it's goin' to rain -- great Christopher!"

"Me, too," said the citizen. "I can tell when a streak of humidity the size of a table-cloth starts from Florida on its way to New York. And if I pass a theatre where there's an 'East Lynne' matinee going on, the moisture starts my left arm jumping like a toothache."

"It's undiluted -- hades!" said the burglar.

"You're dead right," said the citizen.

The burglar looked down at his pistol and thrust it into his pocket with an awkward attempt at ease.

"Say, old man," he said, constrainedly, "ever try opodeldoc?"

"Slop!" said the citizen angrily. "Might as well rub on restaurant butter."

"Sure," concurred the burglar. "It's a salve suitable for little Minnie when the kitty scratches her finger. I'll tell you what! We're up against it. I only find one thing that eases her up. Hey? Little old sanitary, ameliorating, lest-we-forget Booze. Say -- this job's off -- 'scuse me -- get on your clothes and let's go out and have some. 'Scuse the liberty, but -- ouch! There she goes again!"

"For a week," said the citizen. "I haven't been able to dress myself without help. I'm afraid Thomas is in bed, and --"

"Climb out," said the burglar, "I'll help you get into your duds."

The conventional returned as a tidal wave and flooded the citizen. He stroked his brown-and-gray beard.

"It's very unusual --" he began.

"Here's your shirt," said the burglar, "fall out. I knew a man who said Omberly's Ointment fixed him in two weeks so he could use both hands in tying his four-in-hand."

As they were going out the door the citizen turned and started back.

"Liked to forgot my money," he explained; "laid it on the dresser last night."

The burglar caught him by the right sleeve.

"Come on," he said bluffly. "I ask you. Leave it alone. I've got the price. Ever try witch hazel and oil of wintergreen?"

Bicycle Helmet Safety

Head injuries are a leading cause of serious injury and death to children riding bicycles*. Most injuries occur when a cyclist suffers a fall, strikes a stationary object, or collides with another cyclist/pedestrian. Remember – it's the law in Alberta that cyclists under the age of 18 must wear a helmet (and highly recommended for all ages). Helmets should be CSA approved and worn during recreational activities such as skateboarding, in-line skating, or cycling.

Getting informed

- Wearing a helmet while cycling can prevent a serious injury, or even save a life;
- Brain injuries can cause permanent disability or death;
- Reduce your risk by always wearing your helmet;
- Replace any helmet that has been involved in a crash, even if it appears undamaged.

Getting started

- Allow children to assist when buying their helmet. Cyclists who choose their own helmet are more likely to wear them;
- Start the habit early. Young children learning to ride tricycles need to wear helmets;
- Parents must lead by example – always wear a helmet when cycling.

Getting the right fit

- Take the time to properly fit and adjust your helmet to ensure maximum protection in case of a crash;
- When worn properly, helmets should fit level, not tilted up, or down over the forehead;
- Helmets should feel snug, but not too tight. To test the fit, the helmet should not fall off when you shake your head from side-to-side while the straps are unfastened;
- Adjust the chin straps to form a "Y" below and slightly forward from the ears;
- Only one finger should be able to fit under the chin strap when it is fastened;
- Do not forget to use the sizing pads included with the helmet. They will help improve the overall fit, comfort and safety.

CALGARY BOARD OF EDUCATION BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Website: <http://www.cbe.ab.ca> • Email: boardoftrustees@cbe.ab.ca

Advocating for our students

The Board of Trustees works on behalf of the Calgary Board of Education (CBE) and its students. As part of its role, the Board connects with key stakeholders and advocates for the needs of the system with elected officials.

CBE Trustees have been hard at work, advocating for our students with the provincial government. The CBE is funded almost entirely by the Province, so it is important to advocate in this manner. Trustees have met with a number of elected officials and stakeholders, such as individual Calgary MLAs, the Government's Calgary MLA Caucus, and the Executive of Alberta Teachers Association (ATA) Local 38 to ensure they know the issues the school system faces. Trustees have presented at numerous school council meetings and organized area meetings with the Council of School Councils.

As a school system, we will be faced with difficult, challenging decisions in the coming months. Over the past few years, the funding that the CBE has received from the province has declined on an overall per-student basis. During that time, costs have continued to increase. Examples of increasing costs include: general inflation 1-2 per cent, utilities 5.9 per cent, ATA grid movement 2 per cent/year ($12 million this year), other union contracts $4.0 million, and insurance 89 per cent last year.

Budget decisions will be guided by CBE values:

- Students come first
- Learning is our central purpose
- Public education serves the common good

We invite you to email us your comments on the CBE budget when it is posted after the provincial government budget is announced. Visit www.cbe.ab.ca/budget to access the budget feedback page. You may also follow our advocacy activities at www.cbe.ab.ca/advocacy.

We will continue to work hard for our students and our community. We look forward to engaging with you along the way.

Now Available: A New Four-Year Plan for Calgary

City Council approved The City of Calgary's Action Plan for 2015 -2018. Now you can read it online in its full, finalized version. Representing a $22 billion capital and operating investment in Calgary over four years, the approved Action Plan allows The City to maintain most of its services, with some enhancements and new investments. Visit calgary.ca/actionplan to find out more. Thank you Calgary, for taking Action!

Multi-family Recycling is Coming to Calgary

If you live in an apartment, townhouse, or other multi-family complex, on-site recycling is coming soon!

Council has approved a bylaw requiring multifamily complexes to provide on-site recycling for residents by February 1, 2016. Recycling companies can provide collection and processing. The City of Calgary will provide communication, education and monitor compliance.

To learn more about multi-family recycling, visit www.calgary.ca/multifamilyrecycling, or contact 311.

Earn Your Wings as a Snow Angel

For some Calgarians each new snowfall brings worries of slipping and falling. Keeping sidewalks shoveled, ice-free and safe can be very challenging – even dangerous – for older adults and others who have limited mobility. As you shovel your walk this winter, take a few extra minutes to clear a neighbour's too. You'll help them and everyone else who travels your sidewalk!
